this report summarizes the major findings of a 20 year program of research on the role and function of cognitive resources in organizational performance although there is no generally accepted definition of the term leadership experience is one of the most important factors in selection and promotion decisions in common usage experience most often refers to time in service tis at an organization a job or occupation e g how long have you been a manager here other definitions may also refer to diversity richness or relevance of previous jobs however all definitions imply skills knowledge and behavior acquired in the course of time on the job rather than by formal training this report is based on data from over 1 200 leaders and task groups in military and civilian organizations and laboratory settings most of the studies were part of a larger project on the utilization of cognitive resources that is the leaders intellectual abilities experience and job relevant knowledge and skills three specific points should be kept in mind in reading this report 1 our research focuses on leadership experience not individual experience e g conducting an orchestra not playing a violin 2 high or low leadership experience intelligence expertise etc in this report is almost always based on a comparison within a particular sample a platoon sergeant has high or low intelligence in comparison with other platoon sergeants regardless of his or her score on a standardized intelligence test 3 the effective utilization of a cognitive resource e g experience is inferred from the correlation between that resource and the performance of the leader or the group thus a correlation of 80 between time in service tis and performance implies that experience contributed strongly to performance 00 implies that experience had no influence and -80 implies that experience was detrimental to performance
