this book presents a comparative ethnographic understanding of government and low fee private schools in india within the context of ever increasing privatization and commercialization of education and the growing presence of non state actors drawing on rich empirical data the book provides an ethnographic account of a government and a low fee private school in hyderabad india and explores life in these two distinct spaces through the lens of culture while private schools catering to the poorer sections have been proliferating little is known about how these low fee private schools operate how choices and negotiations unfold the classroom discourses subjective meanings of different stakeholders and the kind of education provided in these schools vis à vis the government schools the book focuses on the educational experiences schooling choices processes and voices of the children and teachers at these schools to reflect on how school culture influences the quality of education based on intensive fieldwork and qualitative data the book provides contextual insights into what exactly happens inside the schools and classrooms of two contrasting schooling provisions in india and helps understand the world views of different stakeholders as they negotiate their daily lives the book will be of interest to students researchers and teachers of education sociology of education childhood studies urban education and teacher education it will also be useful for education policymakers educationists education professionals and those working on private schooling in india just as higher education here in europe had its beginnings in religious training for the priesthood here in feudal japan too provided instruction for a religious life but while the evolution to secular instruction was gradual in europe in japan it came with a big bang the opening of the country and consequent westernization and all that that involved in the mid 19th century this first volume in the new japan documents handbook series tells the story in 25 chapters of how japan's higher education system has become what it is now ending with a very tentative glimpse into the rest of the 21st century a variety of themes are covered by scholars chapters that concentrate on governance look at the distinction between national public and private institutions others consider important topics such as internationalization student recruitment and faculty mobility more innovative topics include women of color leading in japanese higher education all provide copious references to other authorities but rather than just toe the conventional line they include opinions and proposals that may be contentious or even revolutionary the editor provides an overview of the subject and its treatment in an introduction first of all the author wants to make it crystal clear that the present work is of a great benefit both for the english and arab learners of the target language either arabic or english this edition of the book pinpoints previous researchers findings regarding english and arabic phonological morphological and syntactic similarities and differences and how all these differences result in mistakes and errors by the arab learners of english in their learning process these mistakes or errors are unconsciously or involuntarily made by arab learners of english due to the differences between the system and sub systems of the two languages the present attempt is the result of my realization as an english language teacher as to how a teacher can minimize students difficulties in learning of english and maximize their knowledge skills and competency of english as a foreign or second language this is the first edition the work is pedagogically oriented and primarily intended to make teaching learning of english as a foreign second language a bit easy especially for the first year university students of english language in the arab world gulf area such as ksa uae kuwait and the middle east area such as jordan syria lebanon and so on the focus is on phonetic and morpho syntactic variations in arabic and english languages this area of research becomes more interesting through the assumptions i information about the differences and similarities between arabic and english language is to be supplied at an early stage since this facilitates the students learning task ii the differences are to be presented in pedagogically suitable format iii it is useful to separate and present phonetics morphological and syntactic categories as they function in suitable contexts and not merely abstract notions iv before students may tackle contrastive analysis they should have basic knowledge of arabic and english languages similarities and differences and v pre modification and post modification of lexical and syntactic structures are to be explained appropriately
